Before you even touch the piano, read through the music. Hum the melody to get a feel for its shape and rhythm. This helps in internalizing the music and making the learning process more intuitive.

2. Break It Down Section by Section

Don't try to play the entire piece from start to finish in one go, especially if you're a beginner. Focus on mastering one phrase or musical sentence at a time. Practice hands separately first, then bring them together slowly.

Speed will come with practice. The most important thing in the early stages is to play the correct notes with the correct rhythm. Use a metronome to help you develop a steady tempo. As you become more comfortable, you can gradually increase the speed. * Tempo Marking: Look for any tempo markings on your sheet music (e.g., Andante, Moderato) and try to adhere to them.
