Acing the Interview: Making Your Mark

The interview process in banking can be rigorous, often involving multiple rounds of interviews.

Common Interview Questions

Be prepared for a mix of behavioral, technical, and situational questions:

1. Behavioral: "Tell me about a time you failed," "Describe a challenging team project," "How do you handle pressure?"
2. Technical: "Walk me through a DCF model," "What are the three financial statements?", "How would you value a company?" (These will be more in-depth for finance roles).
3. Situational: "What would you do if a client was unhappy with your advice?", "How would you prioritize competing tasks?"
4. Market Awareness: Be prepared to discuss current economic trends, recent market news, and your opinion on the banking industry.

Preparing for Case Studies and Brain Teasers

Some roles, particularly in investment banking, may involve case studies or brain teasers to assess your analytical and problem-solving skills under pressure.

1. Practice, Practice, Practice: There are many resources available online for practicing case studies.
