Provide Context

When introducing a puzzle, briefly explain its theme or the biblical passage it relates to. This helps the youth understand the purpose behind the activity and connects the puzzle to a larger narrative. For instance, if it's about the disciples, you could start with a quick recap of who they were.

Offer Assistance (But Don't Give Answers Away!)

Be available to help, but resist the urge to simply provide answers. Instead, guide them by: * Suggesting relevant Bible passages: "This clue might be about someone mentioned in the book of John." * Asking clarifying questions: "What do you remember about the man who was healed by Jesus?" * Breaking down complex clues: Rephrasing a clue in simpler terms.

Make it a Competition (Optional)

For older youth, a friendly competition can add excitement. Award small prizes for the first to finish or for the most correct answers. However, ensure the focus remains on learning, not just winning.
