2	Are NSW State Forests good for beginner campers?	Absolutely! Many State Forests offer well-maintained campgrounds with facilities like picnic tables, fire pits, and toilets, making them ideal for those new to camping. Look for designated campgrounds rather than dispersed camping initially.
3	How do I find out if I need to book a campsite in a NSW State Forest?	Bookings are increasingly common, especially for popular spots and during peak seasons. Always check the NPWS website or the specific forest's page for booking information. Some may require online booking and payment in advance.
