This section often asks you to define personal management and explain why it's important. * Your Approach: Think about the benefits we discussed earlier – better grades, financial stability, less stress, more free time. * Worksheet Action: Write down your definitions and explanations clearly. You might be asked to discuss this with your merit badge counselor, so be prepared to articulate your thoughts.

Requirement 2: Setting Personal Goals

This is a crucial part. You'll likely be asked to set several personal goals. * Your Approach: Goals should be SMART: Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant, and Time-bound. Don't just say "get better grades." Instead, aim for "increase my math grade from a B to an A- by the end of the semester." *

Worksheet Action: List your goals on the worksheet. You'll probably need to include at least one short-term goal and one long-term goal. For each goal, describe the steps you'll take to achieve it and how you'll measure your success. This might involve tracking progress on a separate log or chart.

Requirement 3: Developing a Personal Budget

This section focuses on financial management. *

Your Approach: You'll need to track your income (allowance, earnings from chores or a job) and your expenses (money spent on snacks, entertainment, gear, etc.) for a period, usually a month. *

Worksheet Action: The worksheet will likely provide a template for you to list your income sources and amounts, and then categorize your expenses. You'll need to show where your money is going and how you plan to allocate it. This is a fantastic opportunity to learn about saving for bigger items or even for future investments. Don't forget to include a savings category!

Requirement 4: Time Management Plan

This is where you learn to conquer the clock! * Your Approach: Think about a typical week. When do you have classes? When do you have sports? When do you have free time? How much time do you spend on homework, chores, or relaxing? * Worksheet Action: You'll likely be asked to create a weekly schedule or a time log. This could be a chart where you block out your time. Consider incorporating time for studying, scouting activities, hobbies, family, and even downtime. The goal is to see how your time is currently being spent and identify areas where you can be more efficient or make time for important activities you might be neglecting. You might even be asked to plan specific blocks of time for your personal goals.

Requirement 5: Decision Making

This requirement focuses on the process of making choices. * Your Approach: Think about a significant decision you've made recently. What were the options? What were the pros and cons of each? How did you arrive at your final decision? * Worksheet Action: The worksheet will prompt you to describe a decision-making process. You might be asked to outline the steps involved: identifying the problem, gathering information, listing alternatives, evaluating them, and making a choice. You could also be asked to discuss how you handle peer pressure when making decisions.
